

THE GAZETTE.

MONDAY MAY 14.

There are indications that this year will be a discouraging one for republicans. There looks to be like a head coming in contact with a stone wall.

There is not a democratic administration paper in the north that endorses the Greebow boom. It is a thing they don't like. There is danger in it for them. That is the reason.

It is said that the demand for Senator Ingalls' speech is unprecedented in the history of parliamentary literature. This shows that the people appreciate a good thing when they see it.

One of the living questions of the day is that stated by a London preacher, recently: "Where are the poor?" When I count the offshoots in the vestry I say: "Where are the rich?"

Voorhees is looking for vindication. The south vindicates him, and it might be a good thing to make him president of the St. Louis convention. That would help, somewhat, to alleviate the sufferings that Ingalls inflicted upon him.

A prosperous business man of Syracuse was recently sued for breach of promise and $10,000, and determined to fight it out. When the far and aggrieved maiden turned into evidence a sachel containing 200 of his love letters he threw up his hands and the jury gave her 50 cents on the dollar for damages.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat says: "The Wisconsin republicans have endorsed Gov. Rusk, of that state, for the presidency. Gov. Rusk is best known to the people of the country as the man who put down the anarchist uprising at Milwaukee two years ago in a signally courageous and patriotic way; and he will always be admirably remembered for that service whether he shall ever be chosen president or not."

It is a singular fact that the democrats, the saloon-keepers, and the political prohibitionists of New York, are all tickled alike over Governor Hill's veto of high license. All have different reasons. The saloons want to make money. Democrats want the saloon help, the prohibitionists want liquor as free as water so that people will be disgusted with it sooner. The saloon men and the democrats are consistent. The prohibitionists are not.

The Tribune called the Philadelphia Times' story about Mr. Blaine's positive candidacy "chiefly both—mere goose-fodder," and now the Philadelphia Press, edited by another close friend of Mr. Blaine, denounces it as "another yarn" and one of a series of "repeated fictions." As there has been nothing received from Mr. Blaine to reverse his Florence letter and his interview, this course of his intimate friends seems strange enough. Probably they haven't any respect for Mr. Blaine's declaration.

There is a question before the Methodist general conference to limit the term of the bishops to eight years. At present, they are elected for life. Just what is to be gained by the proposition, should it be adopted, does not appear on the surface. It would seem to be a step backward and yet it is possible that it may be adopted. A conference that will vote to exclude women from taking part in its deliberations, especially when the same church gives them permission to preach, may be expected to do something else equally as foolish.

The colored voter is not being forgotten in the bestowal of honors at the various state republican conventions. For instance, at the late convention at Wichita, Kan., for the election of delegates at large to the Chicago convention, not only was a colored man chosen for one of the alternates, but also for an elector at large. Ohio will send two colored alternates at large to Chicago, and Illinois one, a young man who studied law while pursuing the business of a barber, and was afterward made city attorney of his place, the city of Paxton, Ford county.

The tenth volume of the "Wisconsin Historical Transactions" has been published, which includes papers contributed from 1833 to 1835 inclusive. It is not too much to say that the present issue is one of the most important of the series. The articles on the early history of the Wisconsin territory are of unusual interest. The late Hon. Eliza B. Washburne has one on Colonel Henry Gratiot, a pioneer of Wisconsin; General George W. Jones, writes on the Black Hawk war; the Hon. James Sutherland, whose press contributions are always good, writes on the early Wisconsin exploration and settlement. There are many other articles of interest in the volume, which are very instructive reading.

The National cemetery at Fredericksburg, Virginia, is the third in size, there being over 15,000 soldiers buried there, drawn from the neighboring battlefields of Chancellorsville, Spotsylvania, and the Wilderness. The cemetery itself lies on the battlefield of Fredericksburg and in the midst of most solemn associations, yet only two decoration day services have ever been held there. These were in 1866 and 1881. While the people of Fredericksburg look to the services in the confederate cemetery, the field of the Union dead is given up to a sort of colored people. The Grand Army should take this in charge. Fredericksburg is but two hours from Washington, and there is no more impressive spot for memorial services.

The Milwaukee Sentinel furnishes this item: "A former Milwaukeean, Mr. A. M. Thomson, now engaged at farming at New Rockford, Dakota, was a candidate for delegate in the Jamestown convention to the territorial republican convention which will elect delegates to Chicago, and was defeated. Mr. Thomson is a Blaine-or-Buster. The republican convention is no place for a Blaine-or-Buster delegate, or any other man-or-buster, and therefore it is well that Mr. Thomson does not go to Chicago. The business of the national republican convention will be to build up the republican party, and not to attempt to further the political interests of one man at the expense of the party.

Ira B. Bradford, who is posing up in Wisconsin as a member of the "kid" democracy, may be a young man, but he is at it the second time in his life that he has been one. There is a stigma of disrepute called second childhood, and perhaps Ira has reached it. —Chicago Times.

Mr. Bradford will not take kindly to the charge that he is a democrat. Among all the republican leaders in the state there is not one more thoroughly republican than he. For the information of the Times, which seems to think that Mr. Bradford is falsely posing as a "kid" and suggesting that he may in his second childhood, the Gazette will say that he was born in Rock county, Wisconsin, in 1831, and therefore is only thirty-seven years old.

The Bourbon press in New York have nothing to say against the thousands of dollars the republican party have been doling out to the republican party to improve creeks in South Carolina that can not be found on the map, but they howl fearfully over Senator Chilton's proposition to amend by adding $500,000 for the Hennepin Canal. It was always the —Chicago Times.

Of course it was. The tens of thousands of dollars thrown away on the creeks in the south, are not intended to improve the creeks, but to improve democratic majorities. A big appropriation is what the south wants, and so long as the democrats are in power the south will get it. No loyal democratic paper dare condemn the river and harbor bill when it is a democratic measure. It is only when republican congresses pass extravagant bills of that kind that the democratic press is aroused to indignation.

The state election in Oregon occurs on the 6th of June, and the administration is sparing no efforts to carry the state. Mr. St. John has gone there to work up the prohibition vote, and Smith M. Ward, a dextrous democratic politician of New York, who may be a prominent part in 1876 in the effort of the Alden managers to buy an elector or a returning board, has also hastened thither to supply the steams of war and stimulate the rank and file of his party. The state has always been a close one, and the election of a United States senator to succeed Mr. Dolph depends on the result of the approaching election. —Milwaukee Sentinel.

It is the purpose of Mr. St. John to go where he can do the most harm, and receive the best pay for doing it. Nothing would please Mr. St. John more than to see Oregon go democratic. His heart yearns for republican defeat. He does not hope for prohibition success because that is out of the question. He does not work for the success of prohibition. He labors for fifty dollars a night and for republican defeat.

The ministers of Chicago on Sunday opened fire on the city council all along the line, for voting down the ordinance to prohibit the establishment of saloons within 200 feet of a church or a school house. The ministers did just right in attacking the council, but they were wrong in another direction, which is stated in the Chicago Times:

In his vigorous and able sermon on the evils of the saloon in politics, Rev. Dr. Withrow, of the Third Presbyterian church, stated one important truth that is worthy of special consideration. That was that the root of the evil of electing saloon men who are in the liquor business consists in the citizens' neglect of the duty of going to the primaries to see and say who it is safe to vote for. Dr. Withrow was frank enough to say he had never yet attended a primary, but always voted as the leaders directed. That is the trouble with the majority of good people who complain of politics as it is; they do nothing to improve politics.

The ministers and many of the church members of Chicago, are responsible, in a large degree, for this condition of things. It is just as the Times says, there are many good people who do not attend the primaries, and there are many more who vote for the third party ticket, which is virtually voting to put in power the very men who voted against the ordinance. As was shown in the Gazette the other day, the democratic aldermen voted for placing the saloons right under the eaves of churches and school houses, and the republicans, with one or two exceptions, voted against it. When the ministers shall come down to dealing in a practical way with practical politics, and urge their members to do the same thing, there will be an improvement in municipal affairs. For the defeat of the ordinance prohibiting the placing of saloons within 200 feet of churches and school houses, the ministers must blame the democrats and the third party men. They did the business.

They did the business.

UNDER WATER.

The Mississippi Breaks Through Its Strong Levees.

ALEXANDRIA, MO., INUNDATED.

The Surrounding Country Engulfed by the Swollen Stream — Farmers in the American Bottom Meeting to the Walls — Elsewhere.

THE LEVEE OPENS.

St. Louis, May 14.—At 11 o'clock Saturday morning the levee south of Alexandria, Mo., broke in several places and a vast volume of water began pouring into the town, which was completely inundated. A spasmodic attempt was made to check the irresistible flow, but within a few minutes the laborers quit and accepted the inevitable. It required less than an hour to inundate the town which is covered with water from two to six feet. The water having reached the lower half of the houses their occupants have sought refuge in the upper stories of buildings, where they will be imprisoned until the subsidence of the flood in the main streets. The water is fully three feet deep. The people are compelled to go about in skirts or rudely constructed rafts. Sidewalks are covered with debris and are jammed in the doorways of private residences. Business is entirely suspended. There has been no loss of life or great damage to property within the town.

At this point the Mississippi river is fully seven miles wide. The area which is now in the Missouri bottom, that is submerged is estimated at 75,000 acres, and a continuance of the flood will result in a loss to the farming community of that region of at least $500,000. A high wind prevailed yesterday, which caused the waves to wash openings in the Warsaw levee, which affords protection to 50,000 acres of fertile Illinois land.

The inhabitants of the American bottom are moving their stock and portable property back to the bluffs. From the experience of former years they know the tortuous covered now with hundreds of thousands of waving crops may be under ten feet of water. Reports from the north are alarming and if the St. Louis or Madison levees break the loss will be millions of dollars. The last ten days it has been so dry that the levees have been strengthened along the entire length and confidence was placed in the levees. The levee at Warsaw, Mo., broke in real estate at advanced rates, and fast thousands of acres were sown in wheat. A great acreage of corn has been planted this spring, and it is no wonder that the country over the safety of the levee is truly painful.

Advices from the Red river country report that the damage done to the inhabitants of the Red river valley during the last ten days is almost beyond computation and the overflow has been quite a number of other deaths are reported. Quincy, Ill., May 14.—The river stands seventeen feet six inches above low water level. The high northwesterly wind prevailing has created grave fears for the safety of the levees above and below the city, and large forces of men are working day and night strengthening weak places. The levees have been greatly weakened and a breach is expected at any moment. Should a break occur over 20,000 acres of farm land would be inundated. People living in the threatened district have fled to the bluffs. Trains have been abandoned on the St. Louis, Keokuk & Northwestern, between Hannibal and Burlington, and on the Hannibal & St. Joe from Quincy to Palmyra. Branches of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy are greatly impeded. Many buildings in the city are flooded and ruined.

Keokuk, Ia., May 14.—The high-water mark of 1881 was reached yesterday. The water continues to rise, and it is predicted that it will do so until Wednesday. But few evidences of the disastrous effects of the floods have yet been seen, except in the extreme southern portion of the city. The Rock Island railroad cars are surrounded by a depth of three feet and are fully one quarter of a mile distant from dry ground. The rise of last night and to-day surrounded the round-house and machine-shops of that company and caused a suspension of work there. The situation grows more serious for the lumbermen and requires the efforts of large forces of men to keep valuable property from being swept away. The high wind last night prevented Saturday's continued yesterday and added in considerable damage to railroad tracks, over one of which on the Iowa side of the river is under water at different places to some extent.

Davenport, Ia., May 14.—Front street is choked with boats. The water covers the first floors of hundreds of dwellings, offices, factories and business places. The city of Rock Island, across the river, is a worse sufferer. The water at Nineteenth, Twentieth and Twenty-first streets runs up to Fourth avenue, and boats and rafts are plying south of the Harper House. The greatest fears are felt for the safety of the lower end of the city. The water is now only one-half a mile long keeps out the flood. The stage of the river is four to six feet above the level of twenty-five or thirty blocks of houses.

Keokuk, Ia., May 14.—The stage of water now is about ten inches below the high-water mark of 1881, and in view of the fact that the rise has ceased above hopes are entertained that that stage will not be reached. No damage yet reported in this city. The lumber yards are flooded on the river bank in the lower part of the city, but no property has been carried away. There is no change reported in the railroad situation since Saturday. The actual damage to the embankment can only be ascertained when the water subsides. The loss to the farmers in the bottom lands will be serious. It will greatly delay, if not entirely prevent, the putting in of crops. It will be some time before anything like an accurate estimate of the loss from this source can be given.

Hundreds Starving. Toronto, Ont., May 14.—Hundreds of immigrants are at "The Sheds" here destitute and starving. Charitable people are helping them, but their condition is pitiful. They can not get employment. It is likely that the mayor will be asked to call a public meeting to consider the matter.

A Packing-House Destroyed. AKRON, O., May 14.—Jacob Bradt's extensive packing-house burned Saturday morning. Loss on building and stock $25,000; fully insured. It is supposed that the fire was incendiary.

THE WATER WORKS.

Workmen Busy Adjusting the Pumping Machinery at the Pumping Station.

A Leaky Reservoir—The Pipe Line—Putting in Local Service Connections.

A Great Amount of Work Yet Before an Official Test Can be Made.

A visit to the pumping station will convince almost any one that the Janesville Water Company is not allowing the work to lag on their hands and men are at work all around, especially in the case at the pumping station. The second engine and pump which arrived last week is now in place and is being connected and adjusted by Mr. G. E. Parkhurst, the expert engineer from the Geo. F. Blake Manufacturing Co., of Boston, manufacturers of the machinery. Mr. Parkhurst will have the engine connected by Thursday so that the first engine can be worked if necessary by that time, but it will probably not be used for pumping water before some time next week, or until Mr. Dawson, of the water company, arrives in the city, which will not be until the last of this or the first of next week. After he arrives and becomes satisfied that everything is all right, the stand pipe will be filled and tested, after which the water will be drawn off by opening valves at the river or some fire hydrants, and the stand pipe will then be given its fullish-ness of water. This will require some time, just how long no one except the contractors doing the work are able to tell.

In round numbers the stand pipe will hold three hundred thousand gallons of water. The pumping engines have a capacity to fill it in about two and a half hours, yet it is not at all likely that it will be filled in that time, as only one of the pumps will be put in service for this purpose, and that one will not be run to its maximum capacity, therefore it is more likely to require most of the day. It being the first time pressure is placed on the pumps in their present position, there will be much adjusting of machinery, requiring time.

Several connections remain to be made, and the line of pipe from Gold street to the lower section mill at Monterey, is to be laid. After this the pipe and machinery are to be tested by the company—the leaks and defects, if any, remedied. This will require time.

Besides all this, the reservoir has developed a bad leak, which will have to be repaired. While no trouble or difficulty is apprehended in any of the above work, it will require more or less time, and it may be one, two or three months before an official test of the work is ordered; yet private consumers may be able to obtain water on some parts of the pipe line within a week.

Mr. J. Frank Williams, the general superintendent and constructing engineer, has certainly performed a good work at the pumping station in establishing the grade of the lots owned by the company. The grading has been done according to his plans, trees have been planted, and before the season has advanced many weeks the ground-pipe around the station will present a very pleasing view and one our people will take much interest in.

Mr. T. T. Craft, the local superintendent, and his assistant, Mr. Davenport, are busy taking orders and putting in house services, evidence that the company will have a good patronage of water consumers to commence with.

Many people who have been agitating and waiting for years the establishment of a system of water works in Janesville, are made the victims of too many irresponsible and premature announcements regarding the completion of the works. The report that the pumps would be started to-morrow, originated in the mind of some over-zealous individual. The plant will be officially tested when the works are completed to the satisfaction of Messrs. Turner, Clarke & Rawson, and Mr. J. Frank Williams, their construction engineer, on a date agreed upon by the above parties and the Janesville common council—not before. This is in accordance with the franchise.

Mr. Williams is still at Helena, Montana, and will probably not reach Janesville before the last of this or the first of next month. He has considerable engineering work to do before the plant is fully completed.

The Gazette is unable to inform its readers further at this time, but wishes the company the best of success with the Janesville plant, and recommends the readers to wait until everything is ready and Messrs. Turner, Clarke & Rawson give the word to "Let her go, Galleguer." Then it will be safe to announce the completion of the work.
